PRP(Platelet Rich Plasma) Aftercare

- At the end of your treatment you will see slight redness and maybe a small amount of swelling around the areas that have been specifically targeted (wrinkles, scars). This is normal and will reduce within a couple of hours.
- Bruising is also not uncommon, particularly around the eye area.
- We strongly advise that in the weeks that follow you use a foundation or cream with an SPF of 30 or greater. Ideally a cosmeceutical antioxidant (your practitioner will advise you of this). This will protect the skin during the regeneration phase.

For Optimum results at the end of your treatment we recommend that you:

- Apply aftercare cream twice a day (morning and night) until the tube is finished. We recommend you purchase one recommended by your practitioner for optimum results. Please cease to use any products if adverse reactions occur and call your practitioner.
- Do not scratch, rub or stimulate the skin immediately post treatment. Your skin may feel tighter, this is one of the indications that the treatment is working. If it feels uncomfortable wash your hands and apply a small amount of aftercare cream.
- Leave the treatment to absorb into the skin and avoid make up for 24 hours to avoid infection.
- Leave the area to absorb product overnight and continue with your usual beauty regime the following day. If you need to remove make-up please gently use warm water or a neutral cleanser like cetaphil but only on the areas that have been treated for the first 48 hours.
- Contact the practitioner if the redness persists or swelling does not subside beyond 24 hours.
